ORDER OF PUBLICATION

IN THE PROBATE COURT OF LAFAYETTE COUNTY, MISSOURI.

Adjudged February Term 8th day, March 17th, 1913. Estate of Joseph Myers deceased.
 Now at this day comes Walter B. Waddell, Executor of the Estate of Joseph Myers deceased, and presents his petition praying for an order for the sale of so much of the real estate of said Joseph Myers deceased, as will pay and satisfy the remaining debts due by said estate and yet unpaid for want of sufficient assets, accompanied by the accounts, lists and inventories required by law in such cases.

On examination whereof it is ordered that all persons interested in said estate be notified that application as aforesaid has been made, and that unless the contrary be shown on or before the first day of the next term of this Court, to be held on the second Monday in May 1913, an order will be made for the sale of the whole or so much of the real estate of said Joseph Myers as will be sufficient for the payment of said debts.

And it is further ordered that all of the heirs and legatees of said deceased, residents of said Lafayette County, be personally served with notice of these proceedings according to law.

And it is further ordered that this notice be published in the Lexington Intelligencer a newspaper published in said county for four weeks successively before the commencement of the next term of this Court.

A true copy. Attest:

LOCAL EXPRESSION IN MUSIC

Characteristics Have Been Shown by the Works of the Great Masters of Melody.

We can learn something of a man's character by observing his walk. The sailor's gait tells its own story; so does the tread of the plowman. The movement of music is equally significant. Every race has some rhythm which it prefers to others. When the composer thinks of classic Italy, his muse may fittingly choose the lilt of the Pastorale, the measure to which it is not unphilosophic to imagine the Sicilian shepherds dancing while Theocritus ruminated on his idyls. Nor has it perished with the years. Bach and Handel loved it. When we are not moved to tears by "He shall feed his flock," or uplifted heaven-high by the shepherd's music from the Christmas Oratorio, our thanks are due not only to the composers, but to the rustics of Italy who enriched music with this beautiful rhythm. How different is the merry-making in the Pastoral Symphony. Here the humor is robust, uproarious even; the Austrian peasants have no aversion to getting tipsy. The change is not merely one of scene, but of temperament. Beethoven loved to watch the villagers at their revels and, like Goethe, he has left us a picture of the Teuton in holiday humor that men will relish as long as they love art. Here the dance is a waltz, footed with a bacchanalian zest. Mozart's Germans dance as though they wanted to be Italians. His minuets are own cousins to the measures of Padre Martini. Occasionally, however, when the grace of God is stronger than the fashion of the day, he slips into a Teuton mood.—Redfern Mason, in the Atlantic.

HER WINTER GOWN

"My new winter gown received a very sincere compliment the other day."

"As to how?"
 "The proprietor of a restaurant I went into asked me to sit near the window. Said it would lend tone to his place."

FAR, FAR FROM HERE.

"There goes the man who put this town on the map."

"He doesn't look like a politician and I'm sure he's not a baseball pitcher. What did he ever do to put this town on the map?"

"He demonstrated to a learned body of men that it is possible to live on ten cents a day."

"Where?"
 "In Tahiti, I think."

SHE DIDN'T CARE.

"Our club for entertaining literary lions is finally ready. Now what literary lion shall we entertain first?"

The president was all tired out from selecting a hat. "I don't care," she said wearily. "Anybody who doesn't eat with his knife."

EXPERT.

"King Menelik is remaining dead a long time this time."

"But look at the practice he's had. I'll bet Menelik can stay dead six months without its proving fatal."

CIVIC PRIDE.

"How do the streets run in this town?"

"The streets don't run in this town, sir. It's our hustling citizens who do the running."

UGHT TO BE.

"Can one make a feature story out of an ordinary debate?"

"Why not? Isn't it full of ayes and noes?"

HARD TO FIND.

"Wombat says it is hard to find a woman's pocket."

"He ought to know. He married a wombat."
